

TITLE: Research and Knowledge Translation - the Organisational Perspective

WHEN: Tuesday 30th September 2014, 10 – 11am

WHERE: Cox / Walford Room, level 5 MCRI

INVITEES: Theme Leaders + Group Leaders (invitation only)

AGENDA

10 – 10.30 am

Introduction: Moderator Prof. Vicki Anderson

David Johnson to present his perspective and experience in relation to knowledge translation / research impact measures across institutions, using examples from the University of Calgary or the Alberta Children's Hospital Research Institute or even more broadly.

10.30 – 11 am

Moderator to facilitate discussion/ questions between the theme directors, group leaders and David Johnson.

This session will focus on institutional KT measures.

- Why are institutional measures important in terms of telling the story of KT?
- Is there a difference between KT measures and Knowledge exchange measures, or are they the same thing?
- Is there a difference between project and institutional measures? Does one set of measures fit all?
- Can the same KT measures be used across disciplines?
- What are examples of potential quantitative and qualitative KT measures?
- Is there a best practice approach to measurement? What organisations do it well? (how?)
- What should organisations NOT do if they are trying to measure KT at an institutional level.
